

FIELD TRIPS AND GUEST LECTURES

Academic Field Trips - Field trips must be cleared in advance as to day, time, cost and transportation arrangement with the cognizant Instructional Administrator. Field trips, as part of the required instructional program of a course or curriculum, must not involve an admission, participation charge, or contribution on the part of the student. Each instructor is required to accompany the students on all field trips. The instructor must recognize the liability to both the District and the instructor.

Students have the responsibility of notifying their other instructors of absences for field trips. Students should be encouraged to attend scheduled field trips. If the field trip causes a conflict with other classes, arrangements should be made with the instructor(s) whose class(es) will be missed.

Instructors may schedule field trips on Saturday and Sunday, but should offer alternative assignments for students who cannot attend. A field trip on Saturday or Sunday cannot substitute for a regularly scheduled class. Trips into Mexico need special insurance considerations and, therefore, require the approval of the Vice President for Business Services.

Guest Lecturers - Instructors wishing to invite resource personnel to participate in the instructional program for their own classes should notify their Instructional Administrator in advance as to name, date and time of arrival of their guest(s). Instructors should make every effort to not abuse class time by inviting partisan political candidates during election campaigns.

The Vice President for Academic Affairs should be contacted regarding monies that may be available for the employment of instructional consultants prior to any arrangements for such services. Instructors must obtain prior approval of the cognizant Instructional Administrator before inviting a speaker to address combined classes, campus convocations, club meetings, etc. All other requests must comply with the Guest Speaker Policy.
